

15. A SPIRIT OF ERROR III: MONTANISM

In the previous chapters, we told you about Gnosticism and Marcion. Many errors crept into the church in those days. In this chapter, I'll discuss one more of these errors.

BACKGROUND

Towards the end of the second century, the Roman Empire endured terrible calamities. They fought many bloody wars, and epidemics broke out in many places. The plague spread rapidly across the Roman Empire. Thousands and thousands died from those awful diseases. Men, women, and children, old and young, were carried to the grave.

Many thought that the Lord Jesus would soon appear on the clouds of heaven. So, wasn't this prophecy being fulfilled now? Hadn't the Lord Jesus foretold that there would be wars and rumours of wars in the last days? Hadn't the Lord Jesus prophesied that pestilences would break out?

Therefore, it would not be long till judgment day comes!

A bishop in a large city predicted that the Lord Jesus would appear within a year. So, the farmers no longer went to work in the field. They stopped ploughing, sowing and planting. There was no purpose to that anymore, as they believed they would not harvest the crop anyway.

In Syria, a bishop and his entire congregation withdrew to the desert, and there they waited for the Lord Jesus to appear...

Nothing happened!

All those people were wrong; the Lord Jesus did not come! We do not know when the Lord will return. Even the angels in heaven don't know.

Montanus had many followers in Asia Minor, but also in Europe and Africa. He was a member of the Christian church in Pepuza. The city was destroyed by the Roman emperor Justinian I in 550.

But one thing we do know — that day shall come.

Unexpectedly, suddenly! For that reason, the Lord Jesus said: "What I say to you, I say to you all: watch."

MONTANUS' FALSE DOCTRINE

In central Asia Minor, there was a city called Pepuza.

A Christian church had been instituted in that city. Bizarre things were happening there at the time of the early church. A man called Montanus lived in Pepuza.

He had recently converted to Christianity.

Before his conversion, he had been a pagan priest, serving idols, but he had farewelled the idol service and became a member of the Christian church at Pepuza.

Let's go and visit Montanus's home.

Look, there he sits in his living room.

He is speaking about the dark times in which they are living. He talks about the bloody wars raging and the terrible plague spreading.

Montanus lived during the second century, very little is known about his personal life. Id.dbpmedia.org

But see how strangely he acts: he begins to speak louder and faster. Beads of sweat appear on his forehead.

His body shakes and trembles. Suddenly, he rolls off the chair and falls to the ground. His arms and legs convulse. Finally, he lies still, completely unconscious. His friends try to resuscitate him with some water, and sure enough, their efforts are successful. He raises his eyes in astonishment, stands up, and sits on his chair again. Then he tells his friends that the Lord Jesus has called him to reform the church. His friends listen very respectfully.

Another time, he tells them he has seen many strange sights and visions. Of course, Montanus is a great and important man. At least, that's what he thinks. He tells his friends that the Holy Spirit works so powerfully in him that he falls unconscious every time.

And ... they believe him!

What a pity!

For what Montanus says is not true!

It was not the Holy Spirit working in him; no, the devil made him believe all those things!

He also began to predict the future.

He said: "It won't be long now, it really won't! The Lord Jesus will appear on the clouds of heaven anytime now! Soon, very soon, the day of judgment will arrive."

Yes, Montanus can easily say that, but the Lord Jesus had said that no one knows when that day will come.

Revelation tells us that the new Jerusalem will descend from heaven. Montanus says: "The Lord revealed to me that the new Jerusalem will descend in my dwelling place, in Pepuza. For that reason, all believers must come to Pepuza."

And do you know what was the worst?

Thousands believed his lies. Two women, who claimed to be prophetesses, supported him. Everywhere he went, Montanus claimed that he was the true comforter whom the Lord Jesus had promised would come. Yes, everything Montanus said was 'so important' that people believed him rather than what the Bible taught. Montanus taught that the church had to be holy because the Lord Jesus would soon return.

He demanded that Christians must fast often.

He insisted that nobody should get married anymore, for that was better. When a man loses his wife or a woman loses her husband, they must not marry again.

And if persecution arose, Christians must seek the martyr's death. Montanus proclaimed all those bizarre things. You can easily see that Montanus taught a false doctrine.

MONTANISM REJECTED

The Lord Jesus will indeed return on the clouds of heaven, but no one knows when, and Montanus' invention was that the new Jerusalem would descend on Pepuza.

Yet, many believed the teachings of Montanus. Many honoured him as a great prophet. Montanus had followers in Asia Minor, Europe, Africa, and even Rome. But the Lord watched over His congregations and made sure they rejected Montanus' teachings.

The bishops met together to discuss these things. They had meeting after meeting, or in today's words: 'they had synod after synod.' There, they discussed the teachings of Montanus and finally decided that Montanus was a false prophet, for the things he taught were not in the Bible.

Then Montanus said: "The Bible? The Bible is far from finished. Everything I am saying must also become part of the Bible!"

Then the bishops shook their heads and answered: "No, Montanus, you are wrong. The Bible is complete; the Bible is finished, and all those things you tell us are not true."

God watches over His Church. The teachings of Montanus finally disappeared. In this struggle, too, the Lord was victorious. Life was not easy for the Christians. They were often terribly persecuted and divided by satanic attacks, including this one. But all these struggles were unable to destroy the work of the Lord.

QUESTIONS

1. Which error did early Christians make regarding Christ's return, and what were the results?
2. Read Matthew 24. List some of the signs of Christ's return.
3. God's people are called to work 'while it is the day before the night comes where no man can work.' How did the Syrian bishop disobey this command?
4. What does God command of us, as we do not know when He will come?
5. List the errors of Montanus.
6. Prove that he was a false prophet. Where were his errors condemned?
7. What do we read about the new Jerusalem in the Revelation to John?
8. What did Montanus say was revealed to him about the new Jerusalem?
9. What error did Montanus teach regarding the Word of God?

FOR FURTHER STUDY

1. Find a text which proves that no man can predict the hour of Christ's return.
2. Did the errors of Montanus die with him, or can you prove that other groups have tried to predict the day of Christ's second coming?
